Biographical/Historical Sketch

The Faculty Bowling League bowled its first season in 1943 at the H&H Bowling Alley on the corner of Monroe and Bancroft (now demolished). Membership was open to “all having a desire to bowl and holding connections to the University- administration, teachers, office employees, and wives”, and the cost was 82 cents for one evening’s play which was 3 lines.

Since then the League has grown to almost a hundred bowlers. The rules have been greatly expanded and refined, and membership is now restricted to present and retired faculty, staff, and graduate students. In 1992, the League bowled weekly throughout the school year, divided into teams according to department. The League also held annual award banquets since 1977.
